

New green international shipping routes backed by government funding

Investment into zero emission routes to and from the UK will help create long-term sustainability and keep our waters clean.