

New law in place to strengthen UK professions

A new approach to recognising professional qualifications gained overseas has now received Royal Assent.