

New laws to clamp down on disruptive protesters come into force

New orders that will prevent individuals from repeatedly causing serious disruption at protests will come into force today.