

New legislation to address the plant health threat posed by Xylella

A new Statutory Instrument will come into force next month to introduce stricter measures against Xylella