

New measures to boost resilience of 999 call system

A government review has been published today which will help to bolster the resilience of the 999-call handling system following a technical fault in June 2023.