

New Ministerial Code to set out standards in public life and restore transparency

The Prime Minister has updated the Ministerial Code which sets out the standards expected in public life when serving the British people