

New national quantum laboratory to open up access to quantum computing, unleashing a revolution in AI, energy, healthcare and more

Newly opened National Quantum Computing Centre will be home to new quantum computers, designed to push the boundaries of what is possible with the technology.