

New NIHR Research Delivery Network created

The network will play a critical and active role in supporting the health and care research system to bring innovative new treatments and care to patients, carers and the public.