

New PhD projects to tackle rural issues

Farmers are set to benefit from 18 new PhD research projects being funded by Scotland's Rural College to address a wide range of issues within the rural sector.