

New research validates traditional healers' claims over parasite infections in Ethiopia

New research from SRUC has validated claims of traditional healers in Ethiopia that indigenous plants have strong anti-parasitic properties.