

New Royal Navy Surveillance Ship to protect the UK's critical underwater infrastructure

The Royal Navy are developing a new Multi Role Ocean Surveillance ship (MROSS) to protect our nation against hostile actors and grow our understanding of maritime threats.