

New rules require 180,000 on Universal Credit to increase working hours

400,000 to receive more help to progress in work, as Mel Stride says "I want to help thousands of people on their journey off benefits".