

New UK strategy aims to improve lives through digital technology

The UK will lead the way and partner with countries around the globe so no-one is left behind in a digital world