

New use of thermal imaging could reduce diabetic foot amputations

The Government Office for Technology Transfer (GOTT) has funded the National Physical Laboratory's development of an innovative new thermal imaging technology.