

News story: £1m injection into pioneering new space technology

The development of a new generation of pioneering British deployable satellite antennas has been boosted following a £1m MOD investment.