

News story: Advances in aviation security set to go on trial across the UK

Innovative prototypes that are on course to revolutionise aviation security will be given additional support to accelerate their development.