

News story: Avian influenza (bird flu) identified at Kent farm

The risk of public health from the virus is very low and this strain of avian influenza does not pose a food safety risk for UK consumers.