News story: British Army tests innovative virtual reality training

The British Army has awarded a software developer a £1m contract to explore how virtual reality can be integrated into soldier training.