

News story: Defence Secretary to launch report warning of future threats to UK

A new Ministry of Defence report that sets out the need to take action against the latest strategic threats to UK defence and security has been published today.