

News story: DPRTE 2017: the best and busiest yet for DIT DS0

The 2017 Defence Procurement, Research, Technology and Exportability (DPRTE) conference and exhibition, took place at the Motorpoint Arena, Cardiff on 28 March.

Department for International Trade Defence and Security Organisation (DIT DS0) is a main partner in this highly successful annual event.

This event gave DIT DS0 an excellent opportunity to showcase government engagement with UK industry, in support of winning overseas defence and security business.

DIT DS0 offered advice, information and support from their business growth and exportability knowledge transfer zone, and more hands on support from the adjacent exhibition stand.

The themed presentations, which attracted over 230 delegates throughout the day, focused on export support aimed at:

- UK SMEs
- regional marketing advice
- military support
- the Defence Growth Partnership initiative
- media engagement and
- export licensing regulations

The DIT DS0 exhibition stand, staffed by members of the DIT DS0 Small Business Unit, Events Team and Military Export Support Team, received a constant stream of enquiries from UK companies. Many of which were considering military and security markets as an outlet for overseas trade for the first time.

Post event engagement with these companies has been significant and DPRTE remains a priority occasion for us to promote our support and services for the benefit of UK compaies.
