

News story: Environment Agency publishes new evidence to plan for flood and coastal risk up to 2065

The study uses climate change, population and mapping data to set out future flood risk scenarios.