News story: Government Chemist talks to measuring and testing industry association

Julian Braybrook talks about the role of the Office of the Government Chemist and his views of the future in an interview with the British Measurement and Testing Association