

News story: ICIBI website moves to GOV.UK

From 27 July 2017, content from the Independent Chief Inspector of Borders and Immigration (ICIBI) website will be moving to GOV.UK.

The move to GOV.UK means that anyone wishing to access ICIBI inspection reports digitally, or to contact the ICIBI, will do so through a secure government portal. As well as ensuring that the ICIBI's website is better protected against external threats, GOV.UK offers greater resilience than the ICIBI's previous stand-alone arrangement, plus a modern and more appealing look and feel.

Meanwhile, the role and remit of the Independent Chief Inspector, which is set out in the UK Borders Act 2007, is unchanged and the inspectorate will continue to have complete editorial and content control of all of the material published on its website.

The Independent Chief Inspector, David Bolt, hopes that users will find the new website easy to access and use, and welcomes suggestions about further improvements users would like to see.
