

News story: Improving service to customers: The recruitment drive and a better online service

At the Planning Inspectorate, we recognise that a prompt and quality service are vital components of our role in the planning system. These are of paramount importance to our many different stakeholders.