

Ofsted report shows reading has improved but writing and spoken language need more focus

Ofsted has today published a subject report looking at how English is being taught in England's schools.