

Old building shapes future leaders

The Government is committed to transforming historic buildings into centres of innovation. The former Fanling Magistracy is one example where the Hong Kong Federation of Youth Groups Leadership Institute is using the Grade 3 historic building to nurture the city's youth.

News.gov.hk interviewed a representative from the institute and students to learn how Hong Kong's historic buildings are benefiting future leaders.

The story appears on news.gov.hk (August 18) in text and video format.