

Orwell Bridge study offers new hope for reducing high wind closures

A ground-breaking study of the Orwell Bridge in Ipswich has identified new measures that could help to keep the bridge open to traffic during periods of high winds.