

Our ambition for AI must match the Apollo programme that put man on the moon

Our ambition for AI must match the Apollo programme that put man on the moon:

Business Secretary Greg Clark and Culture Secretary Matt Hancock write for today's Times Red Box: "Britain has always led the development of artificial intelligence and today shows this will only continue in the years to come"