

Over £100 million boost to quantum hubs to develop life-saving blood tests and resilient security systems

Five new quantum research hubs backed by over £100 million of government funding will deliver breakthroughs in healthcare, cybersecurity and transport.