

Over £3 million to transform technology in adult social care

People who receive care will benefit from new technology to help improve their independence and reduce avoidable hospital admissions.