

Over 4,700 newly funded post-graduate places in UK universities to create new generation of engineers and scientists

Thousands of post-graduate students will be backed by Government to study biological, engineering and environmental sciences at 45 universities across the UK.