

Over eight million people in the UK receive COVID-19 booster jabs

More than 820,000 boosters have been administered in the last three days, as the government urges people to get their booster as soon as possible