

Partnership project urges anglers to help protect the River Stour

The new online scheme for anglers collects information on fish species and health, and creates a picture of water quality and habitat condition.