

Penning a new chapter in sheep genetics

A new scoping study that will drive the future direction of genetic improvement in the British sheep industry has been announced.