

People in Birmingham share views to help shape future of nature

People in Birmingham are helping Natural England to understand the complex barriers that stop them using green spaces in the city.