

Planners give green light to Otter Valley project

A project to help a river valley adapt to climate change and create an internationally important wildlife reserve now has planning permission.