

Points-based immigration system: delivering on people's priorities

One year ago a new immigration system launched, with visa routes attracting skilled workers across construction, hospitality, health, social care, science and research.