

Police further arrested three more men in connection with murder in Airport District

Police arrested a 32-year-old man in Mong Kok this morning (May 22) in suspected connection with a murder case in Airport District on May 4, in which a 30-year-old man died. The arrestee is being detained for further enquiries.

Two other men, aged 47 and 83 respectively, were also arrested in Ma On Shan on May 14 in suspected connection with the case. They have been released on bail and are required to report back to Police in mid-June.

Police arrested five men and two women in suspected connection with the case earlier. Police laid a holding charge against four men and one woman jointly with one count of conspiracy to murder. The remaining man and woman have been released on bail and are required to report back to Police in mid-June.

Active investigation by the Regional Crime Unit of New Territories South is underway.
