

Policy paper: Building resilient water supplies

How the Environment Agency will lead on creating a national framework for water resources to improve long-term resilience to drought and enhance the water environment.