

Precision farming research attracts international interest

High level delegations from Ghana and China visited SRUC recently to learn about world-leading research into precision farming