

Press release: Change of British High Commissioner to Sierra Leone – September 2019

Change of British High Commissioner to Sierra Leone – September 2019 – GOV.UK

Mr Simon Mustard has been appointed British High Commissioner to the Republic of Sierra Leone.

Mr Simon Mustard has been appointed British High Commissioner to the Republic of Sierra Leone.

Mr Simon Mustard has been appointed British High Commissioner to the Republic of Sierra Leone in succession to Mr Guy Warrington who will be transferring to another Diplomatic Service appointment. Mr Mustard will take up his appointment in September 2019.

CURRICULUM VITAE

Full name: Simon Mustard

Married to: Mary Mustard

Children: Two Sons

2017 to present	FCO, Head, Southern and Central Africa Department and Special Envoy to African Great Lakes Region
2016	Lilongwe, High Commissioner
2013 to 2016	Amman, Deputy Head of Mission
2011 to 2013	FCO, Head, Country-Casework Team and Deputy Head of Consular Assistance, Consular Directorate
2009 to 2011	FCO, Head, Regional Issues Team, Counter-Proliferation Department

2008 to 2009	FCO, Private Secretary to Minister of State, and to the Secretary of State
2005 to 2008	Washington, Policy Lead on Counter-Terrorism and Strategic Threats
2002 to 2004	Belmopan, Third Secretary (Political)
2000 to 2002	FCO, Desk Officer, Environment Policy Department
1994 to 2000	Police Officer, Lothian and Borders Police

Further information

Published 16 April 2019

Thank you for your feedback