

Press release: Dignity of women in custody ensured by planned law change

Police will have to ask female detainees whether they are likely to require sanitary products, which they will be given free, under Home Office plans.