

Press release: Gove launches review into strongest protections for English seas

Review into new type of protection for sea life and marine habitats in England launched on World Oceans Day.