

Press release: Government announces new Code of Practice to tackle sexual harassment at work

A package of 12 announcements has been launched today to tackle sexual harassment at work, including consultations on legal protections and on additional protections for volunteers and interns.