

Press release: Partnership to enable development of derelict Birmingham site

Residents could soon be living in state of the art new affordable homes after the first modular properties have been craned into place on a new city centre development.