

Press release: Record employment is not enough – jobseekers need the chance of better work

The government needs to help every worker outperform what society says they should be able to do, no matter their background, says Work and Pensions Secretary at the Recruitment and Employment Confederation.