

Press release: Stargazing technology used to spot cancer

Cancer could be detected in patients far earlier by using the same technology used to observe stars millions of miles away.