

Press release: World's first International Plant Health Conference to set global agenda on biosecurity and address challenges in plant health

Policymakers, academics and experts from over 74 countries will come together to address current and future plant health challenges.