

Project launched to tackle greenwashing in food and drink sectors

The Environment Agency has launched a project to standardise metrics for environmental performance of food and drink sector.