

Protestors chant slogans which may breach National Security Law on Great George Street, Causeway Bay

At about 3pm today (October 1), a large group of protestors gathered in the vicinity of Great George Street, Causeway Bay. Some chanted the slogan "Liberate Hong Kong, revolution of our times", allegedly inciting or abetting others to commit secession which might have breached relevant offences under the National Security Law. Subsequently, some protestors occupied roads and breached public peace. Police have given warnings to the crowd, clearly stating that their acts might constitute relevant offences under the National Security Law and the Public Order Ordinance, and warned them to stop illegal acts and leave immediately.

Police warn protestors to stop all illegal acts immediately and will take resolute enforcement actions.
